Publishing Information about Schemes

Sep-22

92	The scheme manager for a public service scheme must publish information about the pension board for the scheme(s) and keep that information up-to-date.		Available on website. Ongoing review of Uploaded documents to ensure relevance
93	The information must include: who the members of the pension board are representation on the board of members of the scheme(s), and the matters falling within the pension board's responsibility.		Board membership and terms of reference available on website. Also links to meetings and agenda documents.
94	Scheme members will want to know that their scheme is being efficiently and effectively managed. Public service pension schemes should have a properly constituted, trained and competent pension board, which is responsible for assisting the scheme manager to comply with the scheme regulations and other legislation relating to the governance and administration of the scheme and requirements imposed by the regulator.		Powy Pension Board terms of reference provides the detail
95	Scheme managers must publish the information required about the pension board and keep that information up-to-date. This will ensure that scheme members can easily access information about who the pension board members are, how pension scheme members are represented on the pension board and the responsibilities of the board as a whole.		Available on website
96	When publishing information about the identity of pension board members, the representation of scheme members and matters for which the board is responsible, schemes should also publish useful related information about the pension board such as: the employment and job title (where relevant) and any other relevant position held by each board member the pension board appointment process who each pension board member represents the full terms of reference for the pension board, including details of how it will operate, and any specific roles and responsibilities of individual pension board members.		Discussed at Pension Board and happy to leave in current state, no reason to change.

97	Schemes should also consider publishing information about pension board business, for example board papers, agendas and minutes of meetings (redacted to the extent that they contain confidential information and/or data covered by the Data Protection Act 1998). They should consider any requests for additional information to be published, to encourage scheme member engagement and promote a culture of transparency.		Available on Council Website
98	Scheme managers must ensure that information published about the pension board is kept up-to-date. Schemes should have policies and processes to monitor all published data on an ongoing basis to ensure it is accurate and complete.		Minutes regularly uploaded and documentation reviewed.
Providing information to Members
188	Scheme regulations must require scheme managers to provide an annual benefit information statement to each active member of a DB scheme established under the 2013 Act or new public body scheme. The statement must include a description of the benefits earned by a member in respect of their pensionable service.		Procedures in place. Digital distribution and paper to those that have requested
189	The first statement must be provided no later than 17 months after the scheme regulations establishing the scheme come into force. Subsequent statements must be provided at least annually after that date.
190	Statements must also comply with HM Treasury directions in terms of any other information which must be included and the manner in which they must be provided to members.		Annual Review exercise on All Wales basis
191	Managers of a scheme must also provide a benefit statement following a request by an active, deferred or pension credit member of a DB scheme if the information has not been provided to that member in the previous 12 months before that request.		Acknowledged
192	These benefit statements must include information about the amount of benefits by reference to a particular date and how they are calculated. The full details depend on the type of member making the request.		Compliant
193	The information must be given as soon as practicable but no more than two months after the date the request is made.		Procedures in place to ensure timescales adhered to.

Sep-22

196	Under the Disclosure Regulations 2013, managers of a scheme must provide other information to members and others in certain circumstances (for example, on request). The Regulations set out the information which must be given, the timescales for providing such information and the methods that may be used. Not all information must be provided in respect of all public service pension schemes (there are some exemptions for specified public service schemes or according to the type of benefit offered), but information which scheme managers may need to provide includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• basic scheme information</li> <li>• information about the scheme that has materially altered</li> <li>• information about the constitution of the scheme</li> <li>• annual report (this requirement will generally not apply to unfunded DB public service pension schemes and DB schemes for local government workers) information about funding principles, actuarial valuations and payment schedules (these requirements will generally not apply to unfunded DB public service pension schemes and DB schemes for local government workers)</li> <li>• information about transfer credits</li> <li>• information about lifestyling (this requirement will not apply in respect of DB benefits in public service pension schemes)</li> <li>• information about accessing benefits, and</li> <li>• information about benefits in payment.</li> </ul>		Compliant. Misc regs require notification to members within timescales. Amber to reflect difficulties in notifying all deferred members of actual benefits within timescales. Interim letter issued to advise of benefit entitlement whilst actual benefits calculated. Noted as recordable breach (not reportable).
197	The detail of the information that must be provided to scheme members and others and any exemptions are set out in the Disclosure Regulations 2013. Managers must provide the required information, along with confirmation that members may request further information and the postal and email addresses to which a person should send those requests and enquiries.		In place
198	Managers of a scheme must ensure that scheme members and others are given information in accordance with the Disclosure Regulations 2013, unless they are an 'excluded person' (as defined above).		Acknowledged

199	The Disclosure Regulations 2013 make provision for scheme members and others to receive information that is relevant to their pension rights and entitlements under the scheme. The categories of people who are entitled to receive information vary according to the different types of information, and there are exemptions where information has already been provided in a specified period. The detail of who is entitled to any particular type of information is set out in the Disclosure Regulations 2013 but may include any of the following ('a relevant person'): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• active members</li> <li>• deferred members</li> <li>• pensioner members</li> <li>• prospective members</li> <li>• spouses or civil partners of members or prospective members</li> <li>• other beneficiaries, and</li> <li>• recognised trade unions.</li> </ul>
200	Managers must disclose certain basic information about the scheme and the benefits it provides to a prospective member (if practicable to do so) or a new member. Where the manager has received jobholder information for the member or prospective member they must provide the information within a month of the jobholder information being received. Where they have not received jobholder information, they must provide the information within two months of the date the person became an active member of the scheme.		procedures in place. Compliant.
201	Managers must also provide information on request to a relevant person within two months of the request being made, except where the same information was provided to the same person or trade union in the 12 month before the request.		Compliant. Procedures in place in workflow system.

203	Generally, schemes may choose how they provide information to scheme members, including by post, electronically (by email or by making it available on a website) or by any other means permitted by the law. For benefit statements issued under the 2013 Act, HM Treasury directions may specify how the information must be provided. Where schemes wish to provide information required under the Disclosure Regulations 2013 by electronic means there are important steps and safeguards that must first be met. These include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• scheme members and beneficiaries being provided with the option to opt out of receiving information electronically by giving written notice to the scheme</li> <li>• managers being satisfied that the electronic communications have been designed: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– so that the person will be able to access and either store or print the relevant information and</li> <li>– taking into account the requirements of disabled people</li> <li>• ensuring that members and beneficiaries who were members or beneficiaries of the public service pension scheme on 1 December 2010 (where the scheme had not provided information electronically prior to that date) has been sent a written notice (other than via email or website), informing them that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– it is proposed to provide information electronically in the future and</li> <li>– scheme members and beneficiaries may opt out of receiving information electronically by sending written notice.</li> </ul> </li> </ul> </li> </ul>		Exercise carried out and majority of scheme documentation delivered electronically, except to those who have opted out of e-communications. Workplan in place to increase targetted communications to those members who have not engaged as frequently as hoped but also age appropriate targetted communications (near retirement, mid-career etc)
204	Where schemes make information or a document available on a website for the first time, they must give notice (other than via a website) to the recipient. They must ensure that the notice includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a statement advising that the information is available on the website</li> <li>• the website address</li> <li>• details of where on the website the information or document can be read, and</li> <li>• an explanation of how the information or document may be read on the website.</li> </ul>		Compliant

205	When any subsequent information is made available on a website, managers of a scheme must give a notice (other than via a website) to recipients informing them that the information is available on the website. This notice will not be required where: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• at least two documents have been given to the recipient by hand or sent to the recipient's last known postal address</li> <li>• each of those letters asks the recipient to give their electronic (email) address to the scheme and informs the recipient of their right to request (in writing) that information or documents are not to be provided electronically</li> <li>• a third letter has been given to the recipient by hand or sent to the recipient's last known postal address and includes a statement that further information will be available to read on the website and that no further notifications will be sent to the recipient and</li> <li>• the managers of the scheme do not know the recipient's email address and have not received a written request that information or documents are not to be provided to the recipient electronically.</li> </ul>		Exercise carried out and majority of scheme documentation delivered electronically, except to those who have opted out of e-communications
206	In some cases, the Disclosure Regulations 2013 specify that information must be made available by one of the following methods: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• available to view free of charge, at a place that is reasonable having regard to the request</li> <li>• published on a website (in which case the procedure to be followed before making information available on a website does not apply, except that the person or trade union must be notified of certain details)</li> <li>• given for a charge that does not exceed the expense incurred in preparing, posting and packing the information, or</li> <li>• publicly available elsewhere.</li> </ul>		Compliant
207	Schemes should design and deliver communications to scheme members in a way that ensures they are able to engage with their pension provision. Information should be clear and simple to understand as well as being accurate and easily accessible. It is important that members are able to understand their pension arrangements and make informed decisions where required.		Ongoing Exercise to establish preferred member method of delivery on an individual member basis (eg preferred language)
208	Schemes should attempt to make contact with their scheme members and, where contact is not possible, schemes should carry out a tracing exercise to locate the member and ensure that their member data are up-to-date.		Numbers of "Gone Away" members identified. New facility being used to check small numbers of members as required. Ongoing exercise
209	Where a person has made a request for information, schemes should acknowledge receipt if they are unable to provide the information at that stage. Schemes may encounter situations where the time period for providing information takes longer than expected. In these circumstances, schemes should notify the person and let them know when they are likely to receive the information. Scheme managers and managers (where different) must provide information in accordance with the time periods specified in the 2013 Act and Disclosure Regulations 2013.		Compliant with appropriate processes in place
210	To promote transparency, schemes should make information readily available at all times to ensure that prospective and existing members are able to access information when they require it.		Website, Intranet, bilingual (work continuing)

Resolving Issues

Sep-22

216	Dispute resolution arrangements may require people with an interest in the scheme to first refer matters in dispute to a 'specified person' in order for that person to consider and give their decision on those matters. The specified person's decision may then be confirmed or replaced by the decision taken by the scheme manager after reconsideration of the matters.		Pensions Decision - Pensions Administration Manager. Employer decision - HR Manager
217	Scheme managers and specified persons (if used as part of a scheme's procedure) must take the decision required on the matters in dispute within a reasonable period of receiving the application. They must notify the applicant of the decision within a reasonable period of having taken it.		IDRP information made available to Specified Person
218	Internal dispute resolution procedures must state the manner in which an application for the resolution of a pension dispute is to be made, the particulars which must be included in such an application and the manner in which any decisions required in relation to such an application are to be reached and given. The procedure must specify a reasonable period within which applications must be made by certain people.		Detail in Letter.
219	Scheme managers must provide information about the scheme's dispute resolution procedure as well as information about The Pensions Advisory Service (TPAS) and the Pensions Ombudsman to certain people at certain stages.		Included in letters
220	Scheme members expect their pension scheme to be managed effectively. Where a person with an interest in the scheme is not satisfied with any matter relating to the scheme (for example a decision which affects them), they have the right to ask for that matter to be reviewed.		Included in letters
222	Schemes can operate a two-stage procedure with a 'specified person' undertaking the first-stage decision. Alternatively, they may adopt a single-stage procedure if they consider that is more appropriate for their scheme.		Two-stage adopted. Stage 1 - Pensions Administration Manager. Stage 2 - Pension Fund Manager. Similar practice for most Welsh LGPS Funds.
223	With the exception of certain matters outlined below, the law does not prescribe the detail of the dispute resolution procedure. Schemes should decide on this and ensure it is fit for purpose.		Noted.

224	Schemes may choose to specify time limits within which the following people must apply for a dispute to be resolved, following notification to them: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• scheme members</li> <li>• widows, widowers, surviving civil partners or surviving dependants of deceased scheme members</li> <li>• surviving non-dependant beneficiaries of deceased scheme members, and</li> <li>• prospective scheme members.</li> </ul>		Within 6 months of being notified of decision
225	If schemes decide to specify time limits, they should publish and make those time limits readily available to ensure that those with an interest in the scheme are aware that they must submit an application within a prescribed time limit.		Within 6 months of being notified of decision
226	Scheme managers must ensure their scheme's procedure specifies a reasonable period within which applications by the following people must be made: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a person who has ceased to be within the categories in paragraph 224 above</li> <li>• a person who claims that they were a person within the categories in paragraph 224 above and has ceased to be such a person, and the dispute relates to whether they are such a person.</li> </ul>		Noted.
227	A reasonable period would be six months beginning immediately after the date on which the person ceased to be, or claims they ceased to be, a person with an interest in the scheme. However, schemes have the flexibility to exercise their judgement and take an application outside a specified time period, if appropriate.		6 months applied
228	Managers and specified persons (where applicable) must decide the matter in dispute within a reasonable period of receiving the application. A reasonable period is within four months of receiving the application. In the case of a two-stage dispute resolution procedure, the reasonable period applies to each stage separately. Where a dispute is referred to scheme managers for a second-stage decision, the reasonable period begins when the managers receive the referral. However, there may be cases where it will be possible to process an application sooner than the reasonable time given. Where this is the case, there should not be a delay in taking the decision.		Matter to be acted upon quickly but within 4 months
229	There may be exceptional circumstances of a particular dispute which may prevent the process being completed within the reasonable time period stated above. For instance, where the dispute involves unusually complex and labour-intensive calculations or research, or delays occur that are outside the control of the scheme manager (or specified person), or because they need to obtain independent evidence.		Noted.

230	The regulator recognises that the circumstances of each dispute are different and decision times may vary. Schemes should be satisfied that the time taken to reach a decision is appropriate to the situation and be able to demonstrate this, if necessary.		Procedure is documented and evidenced
231	Applicants must be notified of the decision made by a scheme manager and specified person (where applicable) within a reasonable time period after the decision has been made <sup>123</sup> . Schemes should usually notify applicants of the decision no later than 15 working days after the decision has been made. However, there may be cases where it is possible to notify an applicant sooner than the reasonable time given. Where this is the case, there should not be a delay in notifying them of the decision.		Procedures in place to notify
232	Applicants must be notified of the decision made by a scheme manager and specified person (where applicable) within a reasonable time period after the decision has been made <sup>123</sup> . Schemes should usually notify applicants of the decision no later than 15 working days after the decision has been made. However, there may be cases where it is possible to notify an applicant sooner than the reasonable time given. Where this is the case, there should not be a delay in notifying them of the decision.		Procedures in place to notify
233	Scheme regulations or other documents recording policy about the administration of the scheme should specify internal dispute resolution arrangements. Schemes should focus on educating and raising awareness of their internal dispute resolution arrangements and ensuring that they are implemented.		Included in correspondence.
234	Schemes should ensure that the effectiveness of the arrangements is assessed regularly and be satisfied that those following the process are complying with the requirements set, which includes effective decision making. This is particularly important where the arrangements require employers participating in the pension scheme to carry out duties as part of the process, for example where schemes have implemented the two-stage procedure and employers are acting as the specified person for the first stage		Guidance provided to Employers and individuals where appropriate
235	Schemes should confirm and communicate their arrangements to members, for example, in the joining booklet. Schemes should make their arrangements accessible to potential applicants, for example by publishing them on a scheme website.		Information readily available. Compliments and Complaints policy produced and published.
236	Scheme managers must provide the following information about the procedure and processes the scheme has in place for the internal resolution of disputes to certain people in certain circumstances<sup>124</sup>: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• prospective members, if it is practicable to do so</li> <li>• any scheme members who have not already been given the information</li> <li>• certain relevant people who request the information and who have not been given that information in the previous 12 months, and</li> <li>• members or prospective members when schemes receive jobholder information, or when a jobholder becomes an active member, in connection with automatic enrolment.</li> </ul>		Information available.

237	Scheme managers must also provide the postal or email address and job title of the person to contact in order to make use of the internal dispute arrangements.		Included in correspondence
238	In addition, scheme managers must provide information about TPAS and the Pensions Ombudsman at certain stages <sup>125</sup> . Upon receiving an application for the resolution of a pension dispute, scheme managers (or the specified person) must make the applicant aware as soon as reasonably practicable that TPAS is available to assist members and beneficiaries of the scheme and provide contact details for TPAS. When notifying the applicant of the decision, scheme managers must also inform the applicant that the Pensions Ombudsman is available to investigate and determine complaints or disputes of fact or law relating to a public service pension scheme and provide the Pension Ombudsman's contact details.		Included in correspondence
239	Schemes can decide what information they need from applicants to reach a decision on a disputed matter and how applications should be submitted. Schemes should ensure they make the following information available to applicants: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the procedure and processes to apply for a dispute to be resolved</li> <li>• the information that an applicant must include</li> <li>• the process by which any decisions are reached, and</li> <li>• an acknowledgement once an application has been received.</li> </ul>		Information available.
240	When reviewing an application, scheme managers and specified persons (where relevant) should ensure that they have all the appropriate information to make an informed decision. They should request further information if required. Scheme managers and specified persons should be satisfied that the times taken to reach a decision and notify the applicant are appropriate to the situation and that they have taken the necessary action to meet the reasonable time periods. Scheme managers should be able to demonstrate this to the regulator if required.		Noted.
Reporting Breaches of the Law
244	Schemes should be satisfied that those responsible for reporting breaches are made aware of the legal requirements and this guidance. Schemes should provide training for scheme managers and pension board members. All others under the statutory duty to report should ensure they have a sufficient level of knowledge and understanding to fulfil that duty. This means having sufficient familiarity with the legal requirements and procedures and processes for reporting.		Reporting Breaches Policy produced and available on Fund website

245	Identifying and assessing a breach of the law is important in reducing risk and providing an early warning of possible malpractice in public service pension schemes. Those people with a responsibility to report breaches, including scheme managers and pension board members, should establish and operate appropriate and effective procedures to ensure that they are able to meet their legal obligations. Procedures should enable people to raise concerns and facilitate the objective consideration of those matters. It is important that procedures allow reporters to decide within an appropriate timescale whether they must report a breach. Reporters should not rely on waiting for others to report.		Reporting Breaches Policy produced and available on Fund website. Traffic light system included for determining seriousness
246	Procedures should include the following features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a process for obtaining clarification of the law around the suspected breach where needed</li> <li>• a process for clarifying the facts around the suspected breach where they are not known</li> <li>• a process for consideration of the material significance of the breach by taking into account its cause, effect, the reaction to it, and its wider implications, including (where appropriate) dialogue with the scheme manager or pension board</li> <li>• a clear process for referral to the appropriate level of seniority at which decisions can be made on whether to report to the regulator</li> <li>• an established procedure for dealing with difficult cases</li> <li>• a timeframe for the procedure to take place that is appropriate to the breach and allows the report to be made as soon as reasonably practicable</li> <li>• a system to record breaches even if they are not reported to the regulator (the record of past breaches may be relevant in deciding whether to report future breaches, for example it may reveal a systemic issue), and</li> <li>• a process for identifying promptly any breaches that are so serious they must always be reported.</li> </ul>		Reporting Breaches Policy produced and available on Fund website. Traffic light system included for determining seriousness. Breaches Log kept and updated regularly.
247	Breaches can occur in relation to a wide variety of the tasks normally associated with the administrative function of a scheme such as keeping records, internal controls, calculating benefits and, for funded pension schemes, making investment or investment-related decisions.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
248	Having 'reasonable cause' to believe that a breach has occurred means more than merely having a suspicion that cannot be substantiated.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
249	Reporters should ensure that where a breach is suspected, they carry out checks to establish whether or not a breach has in fact occurred. For example, a member of a funded pension scheme may allege that there has been a misappropriation of scheme assets where they have seen in the annual accounts that the scheme's assets have fallen. However, the real reason for the apparent loss in value of scheme assets may be due to the behaviour of the stock market over the period. This would mean that there is not reasonable cause to believe that a breach has occurred.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.

250	Where the reporter does not know the facts or events around the suspected breach, it will usually be appropriate to check with the pension board or scheme manager or with others who are in a position to confirm what has happened. It would not be appropriate to check in cases of theft, suspected fraud or other serious offences where discussions might alert those implicated or impede the actions of the police or a regulatory authority. Under these circumstances the reporter should alert the regulator without delay.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
251	If the reporter is unclear about the relevant legal provision, they should clarify their understanding of the law to the extent necessary to form a view.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
252	In establishing whether there is reasonable cause to believe that a breach has occurred, it is not necessary for a reporter to gather all the evidence which the regulator may require before taking legal action. A delay in reporting may exacerbate or increase the risk of the breach.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
253	In deciding whether a breach is likely to be of ‘material significance’ to the regulator. It would be advisable for those with a statutory duty to report to consider the: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• cause of the breach</li> <li>• effect of the breach</li> <li>• reaction to the breach, and</li> <li>• wider implications of the breach.</li> </ul>		Detailed in Breaches Policy
254	When deciding whether to report, those responsible should consider these points together. Reporters should take into account expert or professional advice, where appropriate, when deciding whether the breach is likely to be of material significance to the regulator.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
255	The breach is likely to be of material significance to the regulator where it was caused by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• dishonesty</li> <li>• poor governance or administration</li> <li>• slow or inappropriate decision making practices</li> <li>• incomplete or inaccurate advice, or</li> <li>• acting (or failing to act) in deliberate contravention of the law.</li> </ul>		Detailed in Breaches Policy

256	When deciding whether a breach is of material significance, those responsible should consider other reported and unreported breaches of which they are aware. However, historical information should be considered with care, particularly if changes have been made to address previously identified problems.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
257	A breach will not normally be materially significant if it has arisen from an isolated incident, for example resulting from teething problems with a new system or procedure, or from an unusual or unpredictable combination of circumstances. But in such a situation, it is also important to consider other aspects of the breach such as the effect it has had and to be aware that persistent isolated breaches could be indicative of wider scheme issues.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
258	Reporters need to consider the effects of any breach, but with the regulator's role in relation to public service pension schemes and its statutory objectives in mind, the following matters in particular should be considered likely to be of material significance to the regulator: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• pension board members not having the appropriate degree of knowledge and understanding, which may result in pension boards not fulfilling their roles, the scheme not being properly governed and administered and/or scheme managers breaching other legal requirements</li> <li>• pension board members having a conflict of interest, which may result in them being prejudiced in the way that they carry out their role, ineffective governance and administration of the scheme and/or scheme managers breaching legal requirements</li> <li>• adequate internal controls not being established and operated, which may lead to schemes not being run in accordance with their scheme regulations and other legal requirements, risks not being properly identified and managed and/or the right money not being paid to or by the scheme at the right time</li> <li>• accurate information about benefits and scheme administration not being provided to scheme members and others, which may result in members not being able to effectively plan or make decisions about their retirement</li> <li>• appropriate records not being maintained, which may result in member benefits being calculated incorrectly and/or not being paid to the right person at the right time</li> <li>• pension board members misappropriating any assets of the scheme or being likely to do so, which may result in scheme assets not being safeguarded, and</li> <li>• any other breach which may result in the scheme being poorly governed, managed or administered.</li> </ul>		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
259	Reporters need to take care to consider the effects of the breach, including any other breaches occurring as a result of the initial breach and the effects of those resulting breaches.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
260	Where prompt and effective action is taken to investigate and correct the breach and its causes and, where appropriate, notify any affected members, the regulator will not normally consider this to be materially significant.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.

261	Where prompt and effective action is taken to investigate and correct the breach and its causes and, where appropriate, notify any affected members, the regulator will not normally consider this to be materially significant.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
262	Reporters should consider the wider implications of a breach when they assess which breaches are likely to be materially significant to the regulator. For example, a breach is likely to be of material significance where the fact that the breach has occurred makes it appear more likely that other breaches will emerge in the future. This may be due to the scheme manager or pension board members having a lack of appropriate knowledge and understanding to fulfil their responsibilities or where other pension schemes may be affected. For instance, public service pension schemes administered by the same organisation may be detrimentally affected where a system failure has caused the breach to occur.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
263	Reports must be submitted in writing and can be sent by post or electronically, including by email or by fax. Wherever possible reporters should use the standard format available via the Exchange online service on the regulator's website.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
264	The report should be dated and include as a minimum: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• full name of the scheme</li> <li>• description of the breach or breaches</li> <li>• any relevant dates</li> <li>• name of the employer or scheme manager (where known)</li> <li>• name, position and contact details of the reporter, and</li> <li>• role of the reporter in relation to the scheme.</li> </ul>		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
265	Additional information that would help the regulator includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the reason the breach is thought to be of material significance to the regulator</li> <li>• the address of the scheme</li> <li>• the contact details of the scheme manager (if different to the scheme address)</li> <li>• the pension scheme's registry number (if available), and</li> <li>• whether the concern has been reported before.</li> </ul>		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
266	Reporters should mark urgent reports as such and draw attention to matters they consider particularly serious. They can precede a written report with a telephone call, if appropriate.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.

268	The regulator will acknowledge all reports within five working days of receipt, however it will not generally keep a reporter informed of the steps taken in response to a report of a breach as there are restrictions on the information it can disclose.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
269	The reporter should provide further information or reports of further breaches if this may help the regulator to exercise its functions. The regulator may make contact to request further information.		Noted. Statement of fact/process.
270	Breaches should be reported as soon as reasonably practicable, which will depend on the circumstances. In particular, the time taken should reflect the seriousness of the suspected breach.		Detailed in Breaches Policy
